ABSTRACT

This selective bibliography contains information on material dealing with domestic violence in the home with a special emphasis on child abuse, that may be obtained in the Robert E. Kennedy Library at California Polytechnic University. The bibliography is divided according to different forms of abuse, e.g.,. emotional child abuse, incest/sexual abuse and elder and wife abuse. Sections on counseling and treatment, shelters, foster homes, the role of the school, and measurement tools as well as a section on children's literature are included. Both print and non-print materials are listed, with emphasis on books and journal articles. The information dates from 1976-1982, and is organized alphabetically by author or title within each section. The bibliography also presents a list of organizations concerned with family violence and a selected list of printed abstracts, e.g., Psychological Abstracts, Sage Family Studies Abstracts, and journals which cover the issues of abuse and family violence. INTRODUCTION

This bibliography contains information that may be obtained in the Robert E. Kennedy Library on domestic violence in the home with a special emphasis on child abuse. The bibliography is divided into the different forms of abuse, with sections on counseling and treatment, shelters, and materials for children. It includes both print and non-print materials, with emphasis on books and journal articles. The information dates from 1976-1982, and is organized alphabetically by author or title within each section.

SCREAM QUIETLY OR THE NEIGHBORS WILL HEAR is only one of the titles listed within the bibliography, but it aptly sums up a problem that involves the educator, the counselor, the social worker, and the concerned citizen in seeking a solution to a growing problem in America that effects all levels of society.
